

Spectacular favourites and new formats: Roadbike and MTB events in Tirol in summer 2022

Professional athletes and ambitious amateurs alike will find plenty of roadbike and mountain bike events in Tirol showcasing the beautiful landscape and challenging terrain of this region. Summer 2022 will once again see a wide range of races and mass-participation events take place in Tirol. Highlights include the spectacular Tour of the Alps bringing some of the world's best pro riders to Austria as well as perennial favourites and a few new formats. Here are the most important bike events in Tirol at a glance.

Tour of the Alps – 18 until 22 April 2022

Five stages, 719 kilometres and 13,750 vertical metres of climbing – this year's Tour of the Alps certainly lives up to the punishing reputation the race has built up over the past five years. This year once again it will draw 150 of the world's best professional riders to race on the roads of the Tirol-South Tirol-Trentino Euroregion from 18 until 22 April 2022. The peloton will include ten top-level UCI World Tour teams including INEOS Genadiers with Richie Porte, Team Astana Quazaqstan with Vincenzo Nibali and Miguel Angel Lopez, and BORAhansgrohe with Wilco Kelderman. In 2022 the Tour of the Alps will for the first time be part of the UCI ProSeries. Stage one begins in Cles in Trentino and leads via Primiero/S. Martino di Castrozza, Lana and Niederdorf to the Austrian border, where riders cross into East Tirol for the final two stages – one ending in Kals am Großglockner and one ending in the region's main town, Lienz. Riders and spectators alike can look forward to more of the wonderful scenery and top-level riding that have made the Tour of the Alps so popular in recent years. <https://www.tourofthealps.eu>

Dreiländergiro – 26 June 2022

Each year the Dreiländergiro sees 3,000 roadbike riders from 30 countries meet in the west of Tirol for one of Europe's largest mass-participation roadbike events. It will be taking place for the 28th time in 2022 and challenge riders once again to complete 120 kilometres with 3,000 vertical metres of climbing on a route taking in Austria, Italy and Switzerland. The highlight is without a doubt the climb of the Stelvio Pass – one of the most spectacular mountain roads in Europe with its legendary 48 switchbacks. <https://www.dreilaendergiro.at>

Kitzbühel Bike Marathon – 10 July 2022

The Kitzbühel Bike Marathon is not for the faint of heart or the weak of leg! This event, which will take place for the second time in summer 2022, is 216 kilometres in length with a total of 4,600 vertical metres of climbing. The marathon is open to all riders, but you will need a good fitness level and the right pacing strategy to make it through to the end. The route features a number of mountain passes including Pass Thurn, the Gerlos Pass, the Kerschbaumer Sattel and, finally, the brutally steep climb of the Kitzbüheler Horn. <https://www.kitzbueheler-radmarathon.at>

Arlberg Giro – 31 July 2022

With its 150 kilometres of riding and 2,500 vertical metres of climbing, the Arlberg Giro is one of the most challenging roadbike events in the Alps. Each year it welcomes 1,500 participants keen to take on the tough course including the Silvretta High Alpine Road. This twisting strip of tarmac connects Tirol with the neighbouring region of Vorarlberg and is known as one of the most beautiful roads in the Alps. The fastest rider to the top of the Bieler Höhe climb at 2,032 metres above sea level wins the title King / Queen of the Mountain.

Ötztal Bike Marathon – 28 August 2022

“I have a dream” is the motto of the Ötztal Bike Marathon – and each year 4,000 riders from around the world come to Tirol to make that dream a reality. Between them and their dream stand 227 km of riding with 5,500 vertical metres of climbing from Sölden in Tirol over four alpine passes into Italy and finally back to Sölden. The best of the best manage to complete this punishing course in around seven hours. The Ötztal Bike Marathon is well-known in the cycling scene for its outstanding organisation. Families, friends and roadbike enthusiasts will once again be able to follow the action live via an internet livestream. <https://www.oetztaler-radmarathon.com>
