SUMMER HOLIDAYS

THE AUSTRIAN WAY

#feelaustria

Meetings at the office followed by quick lunchbreaks, fueling your body with the latest superfoods. Then afterwork drinks with clients or back to the couch, binge-watching the latest Netflix show. For many of us, city life sometimes feels like a never-ending hamster wheel. But what if we told you that life didn't always have to be this way? In Austria, we like to do things a little different, our own way. And we invite you to discover and embrace our lifestyle in all its facets this summer.

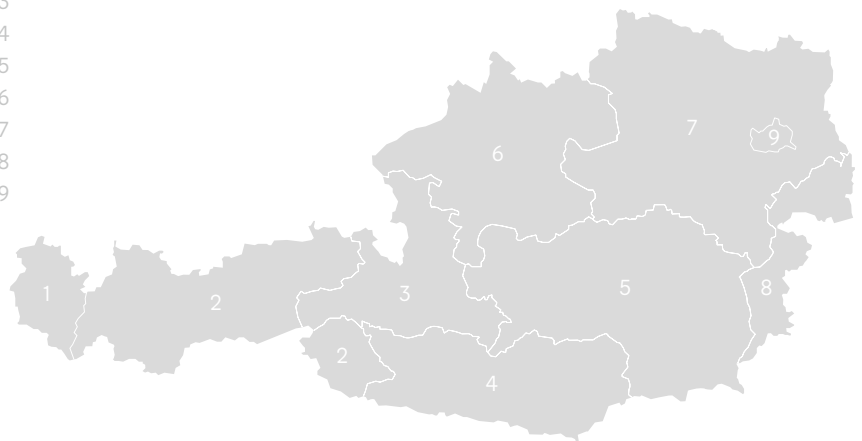

Summer holidays the Austrian way mean taking a step back from the hustle and bustle of everyday life and fully immersing yourself in exciting adventures, authentic nature, and traditions. Swap business meetings for walks by the lake, public football screenings for breathtaking alpine panoramas, and Netflix sessions for a stroll through an art museum, marveling at masterpieces by world-famous painters. Tired of file sharing at the office? Try food sharing instead – we recommend a large portion of Kaiserschmarren, ideally enjoyed on the sun terrace of a cosy hut. Low on energy? Try Austria's famous tap water instead of a chemical canned drink. And how about swapping business small talk for quality time together with your loved ones?

Experience Austria like the locals this year. From active outdoor activities to lazy days in the sun, relaxing city breaks – or a mix of all, no matter where your summer adventure takes you, Austria's regions will each enchant you with their unique vibe.

Need more information on Austria? We'd love to assist! Have a look on our website press.austria.info and contact us.

UPPER AUSTRIA

Pilgrimage along the Benedict Path

Embark on a pilgrimage "from monastery to monastery" along the 724 km Benedict Path. The trail currently connects Slovenia with Bavaria and extensions are planned to the north and south. 290 km of the pilgrim route lead to monasteries in Upper Austria. Four of these stages have already been accessible since last summer and pilgrims and long-distance hikers will be able to cover all 13 stages between Spital am Pyhrn and Engelszell from this summer. The official opening of the Upper Austrian Benedict Path will take place in late summer 2023.

New long-distance hiking trail "Glocknerkrone"

There will be a new long-distance hiking trail in East Tirol from summer 2023. The 65 km path named "Glocknerkrone" leads along the foot of the Großglockner in six demanding stages. At 3,798 m, the Großglockner is Austria's highest mountain. The hike passes through all vegetation zones, from flower meadows to high alpine pastures, barren areas, scree fields and glacier ice. There are five huts to stop off and spend the night at along the way. You can also book services such as luggage transport and a mountain guide to accompany you.

Even more family-friendly: KAT Walk Family

The KAT Walk Family is the ideal long-distance hiking trail through the Kitzbühel Alps for guests with children in tow and from summer 2023 it will be even more family-friendly. Previously divided into five stages, there are now just four. Those who book the local tourist office package are guaranteed family-friendly accommodation throughout as well as environmentally friendly luggage transport by electric vehicle.

New mountain bike trails in the Villach region

The choice for mountain bikers and trail riders is constantly growing in the Villach region. Eight new trails opened last year and the Faaker See Trail-Center is expanding by around 8 km of trails this year. From summer 2023 there will be two jump lines in addition to the classic single trails, the more difficult ones including so-called "doubles". A double is a jump element on which take-off and landing are at the same height with the middle ground dug out in between.

Culinary cycling in Lingenau

A new addition in the Bregenzerwald is the sporty (e)-mountain bike tour that can be booked as a "Culinary Cycling" day package. It takes you from breakfast in Lingenau through the beautifully situated alpine settlement area of Schetteregg. Lunch awaits in Sibratsgfall, a little village at 930 m above sea level in Nagelfluhkette Nature Park, named after "Nagelfluh", a conglomerate of rock. The tour then continues through a typical plenter forest (a sustainably managed forest) before returning to Lingenau for dessert. In addition to the description of the 34 km route, breakfast, lunch and dessert are included in the package. You should allow for a cycling time of around four hours.

Audio cycle path "Crossing the border"

With its 100 km long "Crossing the border" audio cycle path, the Jewish Museum Hohenems launched a truly innovative project in the summer of 2022. Along the route, which leads from Bregenz to the Montafon, 52 audio stations tell the tales of daring escapes that took place between 1938 and 1945. Symbolic border stones mark the audio stations and you can listen to the escape stories via a QR code or the website. From July to the beginning of September, guided cycling tours dive deeper into individual destinies, creating a multi-layered picture of the time. The Jewish Museum Hohenems was awarded the Austrian Museum Prize in October 2022 for its inspiring, bold and open-minded exhibition concept. It is the only museum in Austria to have received this award for the second time.

The Waldviertel has a long tradition as a place of origin for excellent textiles. Wirtex, a family business that has been in operation for 160 years, is part of this tradition as the oldest terry cloth mill in Austria. On an interactive tour of the mill, visitors can find out more about the connection between hand towel and handicraft. The Wirtex movie theatre also provides visual impressions. Guided tours take place three times a week from April to December.

35 years of Sonnentor

Johannes Gutmann, the founder of Sonnentor, stands out in many ways. He firmly believes that the best recipes for a good and long life can be found in nature. He is also convinced that organic farming is the only alternative to the consequences of monoculture and overproduction. Johannes Gutmann and his team have been producing organically certified teas, herbs and spices for 35 years now. You can gain an insight into the world of herbs on guided tours that take place once a week or on herb walks. There are even three country lofts on site for overnight stays in the middle of a herb garden.

20 years of Jauerling-Wachau Nature Park

In 2003, the seven nature park municipalities of Maria Laach, Spitz, Mühldorf, Aggsbach, Emmersdorf, Weiten and Raxendorf founded the Jauerling-Wachau Nature Park Association. The association had existed a few years before, but then ran into economic difficulties. The Nature Park Association sees its task as the long-term protection of the cultural landscape on the Danube, implementing various projects and offering guided tours and workshops. The best way for visitors to experience the mountainous natural area that rises above the Danube is on a hike.

150 years of passenger ferry service on Lake Wolfgang

On 20th May 1873, the impressive paddle steamer "Kaiser Franz Josef I" ploughed through the water of Lake Wolfgang for the first time. Onlookers cheered from the jetty as the era of passenger ferry service on Lake Wolfgang began. There are four modern ships in use today and the paddle steamer "Kaiser Franz Josef I", which was brought up-to-date a few years ago, also sails as a nostalgic ship on certain dates. WolfgangseeSchiffahrt is celebrating its 150 years on the 20th May 2023 with an exclusive anniversary cruise. Music will be played throughout the journey, an imperial visit is expected, and there will be coffee and "Kaisergugelhupf" cake.

130 years of the SchafbergBahn cog railway in St. Wolfgang

Lots of curious onlookers gathered when, on 1st August 1893, the Schafbergbahn took its first seven passengers up the Schafberg high above Lake Wolfgang. The cog railway was considered a technological masterwork and the perfect complement to the Lake Wolfgang ferries. Austria's steepest cog railway is still in use today. The journey from St. Wolfgang to the mountain station takes around 35 minutes. On 1st August 2023, the Schafbergbahn will be marking its 130th anniversary with a special trip. And there is an anniversary present, too: the new valley station will open in early summer 2023, becoming an experience in itself with an exhibition, shop, event zone and restaurant with a lakeside terrace.

110 years of Attersee shipping

The history of shipping on Lake Attersee dates back to the late 19th century. In 1913, "Stern & Hafferl" founded an electric shipping company. Initially, two electric boats were in use. Other companies tried to establish themselves on Lake Attersee over the decades, but only "Stern & Hafferl" has been able to assert itself successfully to this day. The company's fleet consists of three ships, each of them dedicated to an artist who had or has a connection to Lake Attersee. These three are painters Gustav Klimt and Christian Ludwig Attersee as well as the composer Gustav Mahler. The 110th anniversary will be marked with a big celebration on 28th April 2023.

50 years of Nordico City Museum

The striking building in the centre of Linz has been home of the Nordico City Museum for 50 years, with exhibitions dedicated to art, photography, archaeology, and folklore. The history of the building dates back to the 17th century. Designed by an Italian architect, the property was originally a suburban manor for Kremsmünster Abbey. The Jesuits took over the building in the 18th century and set up a seminary for students from Scandinavia, hence the name "Nordico". The Nordico was later used as a residential building. In the 20th century it was renovated by the city of Linz and converted into the Nordico City Museum, which opened in 1973.

Lovingly created: town lofts

In the middle of the town of Zwettl in the Waldviertel, Johannes Gutmann, owner of Sonnentor, which specialises in herbs and spices, will open five holiday apartments in summer 2023. The town lofts are located in a lovingly restored 13th century house. A Gothic vault, components from the Middle Ages, the 400-year-old entrance door and the town wall that encloses the garden have been preserved. An old "Rauchkuchl" (smokehouse) was also uncovered during the renovations. The 23 m² to 79 m² lofts can accommodate up to five people. They are modern, furnished with attention to detail and offer space to rest and relax.

Seehotel am Kaiserstrand

The Seehotel am Kaiserstrand, located directly on Lake Constance in Lochau, will reopen in July 2023 under new management and with some updates. The building's entire technology is currently being renewed. The kitchen is being modernised and the lobby and restaurant are getting a new look. The spa area is being redesigned and the wooden bathhouse in front of the hotel is also being renovated.

VIENNA

Luxurious:

The Amauris Vienna Relais & Châteaux

Former hotel "The Ring" near the Vienna State Opera reopened in February 2023 as luxury boutique hotel "The Amauris Vienna". The name Amauris derives from a black and white patterned butterfly. Following complete renovation that took two years, the new flagship of the Relais & Châteaux Group presents itself in exclusive splendour. Materials such as wood and Carrara marble were used for the furnishings. Black and white dominate the classic modern design. The 62 rooms, including 17 suites, are spacious and equipped with the latest technology. The Glasswing Bistro & Bar is located right on the Ringstrasse and the hotel also has a gourmet restaurant. The spa includes a pool with a glass roof that can be opened.

SALZBURGERLAND

Saffron farmer Georg Wölfler

The history of saffron is full of surprises. Up until a good 100 years ago, saffron cultivation was common in Austria. Austrian saffron was even considered one of the best in Europe. A few years ago, Monika Wölfler, Georg's mother, saw a documentary about saffron farmers in Austria and became interested in the special plant. Her first cultivation attempts in Leogang, the family's hometown, were successful. The field grew. Today, Monika's son Georg, whose main profession is local registrar, and his wife Carina are mainly responsible for ensuring that the saffron thrives and gets to their customers. The lilac flowers are harvested in autumn. Then the saffron threads are pulled out of the blossom, dried and packaged in handmade boxes. In addition to individual connoisseurs, many local restaurateurs are now amongst Georg's customers.

Award-winning vegetarian chef Peter Fankhauser

Peter Fankhauser spent his childhood in the Zillertal and discovered his passion for cooking at the age of 14. Eager to learn, he moved to the USA a few years later, where he mastered his skills at excellent establishments in Napa Valley and Palm Beach. After several years he returned to Austria, where he cooked for some of the country's top restaurants. Together with friends, Peter Fankhauser founded the association "Guat'zEssen" and created the first permaculture garden in the Zillertal. He fulfilled a lifelong dream with the launch of his first, purely vegetarian-vegan restaurant in Stumm. In line with the motto "From the garden to the plate", elaborately presented delicacies are created here in meticulous, loving team work. Restaurant Guat'zEssen was awarded three Gault&Millau toques as one of the best for vegetarian-vegan food in Austria.

Composer and music visionary Christoph Dienz

Christoph Dienz, who grew up in Kitzbühel, is at home in many musical fields. After studying the bassoon in Vienna, he played for the Vienna State Opera. In 1992 he founded the ensemble "Die Knödel", one of the first groups to reinterpret folk music. After an 18-year break, "Die Knödel" have been performing again with great success since 2018. Christoph brought the traditional zither to new life with "Dienz Zithered", using alternative playing techniques and electronics. He also composes film and theatre music as well as operas. Since 2022, Christoph has been the artistic director of Klangspuren Schwaz. The internationally renowned festival for contemporary music is celebrating its 40th anniversary in 2023.

Hiking guide Elisabeth Klöbl

Elisabeth Klöbl, nickname "Lisi", from St. Johann in Tirol describes herself as a nature, exercise, and mountain type. After working in sales for around ten years, she decided to pursue a role related to nature and mindfulness. Today she is a mountain hiking guide, as well as a meditation teacher and resilience trainer. As a specialist, Lisi Klöbl knows the positive effects that outdoor exercise have on body and mind. That's why performance isn't the main focus of her guided "Balance on the mountain" hikes. They are far more about "going up, winding down and finding yourself", about a stress-free break on the mountain, new perspectives and gaining distance from everyday life. Current dates can be found on Lisi Klöbl's website.

The "Wilde Kaiserin" Silvia Huber

After school, Silvia Huber toyed with studying political science. But then she took over her parents' business: the Hans-Berger-Haus at 936 meter above sea level in Ebbs am Wilden Kaiser. Six months of work per year, up to 16 hours per day: this has been Silvia Huber's everyday life ever since. As a much-loved cook, she works in the kitchen. She also runs a mountaineering school, organises climbing workshops for women, gives cooking classes and runs writing workshops with an author from Kufstein. A few years ago, Silvia set up a library at the hut. She gave 25 books to her mountain guides to leave on peaks across the region. Those who found each book were meant to read it, contact Silvia and then deposit the book on another summit. Some of the books have even made it to South Africa, Peru and Nepal.

Sheep wool experts Michael und Edeltraud Schöpf

The Schöpf family founded a loden and blanket factory near Ried im Oberinntal at the beginning of the 20th century. In later decades, sheep wool blankets, knitting wool, fleece and carpets were made here. In 2012, Michael Schöpf took over the factory. He managed to restore the historical machines, including more than 20 looms, spinning machines and a 100-year-old twisting machine. In 2020 he founded the sheep wool factory museum together with his family. On guided tours, Michael and his wife Edeltraud show how knitting wool is made from raw wool and many other processing steps. They also produce "Original Fraunser knitting wool" on an old machine. The raw product comes from local sheep farmers and Edeltraud knits socks, hats and gloves from the colourful yarns. The range also includes woven items such as small carpets and vibrant felts. Son Gabriel helps with the historic machines. Guided tours take place every week.

VORARLBERG

Alpine flower expert Martina Gurschler

"You protect what you know," Martina Gurschler is convinced. The pharmacist has been running the Walsertal chemist's in Riezlern since 2013. She finds relaxation in nature and when looking at and collecting alpine plants. The pharmacist knows exactly how each plant works and has put together an online overview of the Kleinwalsertal flora. The flower window of her chemist's is both informative and decorative, illustrating and naming numerous alpine flowers and plants. The little display is intended to encourage passersby to be more mindful of nature and to pay more attention to the protection of the delicate alpine flora.

Organic chef Roland König

Roland König cooked all over the world for many years, but one day he was drawn back to his homeland; because of the nature, the quality of life and because he had met Marc and Stefanie Brugger. Together they decided to take over the "Moritz" in Hohenems and turn it into an organic restaurant. The "Moritz" is currently the only organically certified restaurant in Vorarlberg, apart from the restaurants belonging to Biohotel Schwanen in Bizau and Naturhotel Chesa Valisa in the Kleinwalsertal. Whether meat, vegetables, grain or fruit: Roland König gets most of his ingredients directly from producers in Vorarlberg. He especially loves "food pairing", creating combinations that most think wouldn't work. Like the sound of pork belly with couscous and radish? One of Roland's most popular dishes!
